

CO-MARKETING PROPOSAL

Cassia as the opening deal for the Argentine investor market

A 90-day multichannel launch built around Cassia, The Residences at Coral Gables, timed with the opening of Urban's office in Nordelta, Buenos Aires.

Prepared for Alta Developers and the Cassia sales team

Prepared by Urban Real Estate, Miami

October 2026

01 The short version

Urban is opening a physical office in Nordelta, the largest master-planned community in Argentina and one of the highest concentrations of dollar-holding families in Greater Buenos Aires. We want to open it with one project in the window, and we want that project to be Cassia.

Invertí en Coral Gables sin salir de Nordelta. Invest in Coral Gables without leaving Nordelta. That is the whole idea.

What we are asking

A co-marketing contribution of $3,500 per month for three months ($10,500 total), alongside Urban's own $1,500 per month, to run a dedicated Argentina push for Cassia across paid social, search, the Nordelta office, WhatsApp and email, and local press. One unit sold at Cassia's average price covers that contribution roughly one hundred times over.

Why Cassia and not another project

Cassia fits the Argentine buyer better than almost anything on the market right now: a dollar asset in Coral Gables, 10% to enter, fully furnished so it can be bought from 8,000 km away without a second trip, short-term rental from three days with optional professional management, and delivery in Q1 2027 so the 30% deposit schedule spreads over 120 days. We have already run Cassia creative in Spanish and the response confirmed the fit.

Why Urban

Twenty-plus years in South Florida, an office at 848 Brickell Avenue, and Cassia already in our pre-construction portfolio. We cover the whole cycle: we generate the demand in Argentina, receive the investor in Nordelta, walk them through the purchase from Miami and, once the unit is delivered, manage it so it earns in dollars. Since July we have been running Argentine investor acquisition with a measured engine: 365 leads to date, Argentina at $8.60 per lead when funded, and a Buenos Aires vs Miami angle that pulled an 11.76% click-through rate in testing. The Nordelta office turns that pipeline into a place people can walk into.

02 The Argentine investor, briefly

For a developer who has not sold into Argentina directly, this is the context that matters.

They already buy in Miami

Argentina has ranked among the top three countries of origin for foreign buyers in Miami-Dade for most of the last decade, consistently alongside Colombia and Mexico. This is not a market to be opened. It is a market to be served properly.

They hold dollars outside the system

Argentine households hold well over US$200 billion in dollar assets outside the local banking system, by INDEC's own estimates. The reflex, after decades of currency crises, is to convert savings into hard assets abroad. Miami real estate is the default.

Entry price is the gate

The decision rarely turns on the total price. It turns on what it takes to get in and how the rest is spread. Cassia's 10/10/10/70 structure is exactly the shape Argentine buyers ask for.

Furnished and rentable is not a bonus, it is the product

An owner in Buenos Aires cannot furnish a unit or manage guests from there. RH interiors, three-day minimum rentals and Nomada management remove the two reasons an Argentine buyer hesitates: setup and operation.

Coral Gables means something

Argentines know Coral Gables. It reads as safe, established and quiet, which is what a buyer protecting capital wants to hear. Merrick Park and the Biltmore are reference points that need no explanation.

They buy from people they can sit with

Trust is local. A deal presented in a Nordelta office, in Spanish, by a team that lives between both cities, closes where an email from Miami does not. That is the whole reason the office exists.

What we have already seen. In our own campaigns, Argentine investors converted at $8.60 per lead, the lowest cost of any market alongside Mexico, and the "Buenos Aires vs Miami" angle reached an 11.76% click-through rate at $0.07 per click. The audience responds. What it has not had is a dedicated budget and a place to walk into.

Campaign figures are from Urban's Meta Ads account, July 9 to September 29, 2026, reported weekly. Projections use that account's actual cost per thousand impressions and cost per lead. Market context on Argentine buyers in Miami and household dollar holdings is drawn from Miami Realtors international buyer reports and INDEC household external asset estimates; figures should be refreshed to the latest published release before distribution.

03 The concept, the office, and who walks in

An Argentine investor can get to know Cassia, understand the numbers and reserve without flying to Miami. The Nordelta office is the front door to Coral Gables.

What the investor experiences in the office

- Real finish samples: imported flooring, Italian kitchen, RH furniture. Things to touch, not renders to scroll.
- Virtual walkthrough of the residences and the amenity floors.
- Investment simulator by unit type: price, deposit schedule, estimated rental income and management costs.
- Advice on buying in the US as a non-resident, with our partner legal and accounting firms.
- Video call with the Brickell team from the office itself, so the Miami side is one screen away.

Five messages, in this order

1. A Coral Gables residence, turnkey and furnished by RH: ready to rent from day one.
2. Your investment on autopilot: Urban sells it, rents it and manages it.
3. Get to know Cassia in Nordelta, before you travel.
4. More than an acre of amenities that sustain rental demand.
5. We are with you through the whole process, in Spanish, from Nordelta to Miami.

Tone: expert, reliable, no return promises we cannot back. Rioplatense Spanish in every local piece.

Who we are talking to

PROFILE	WHAT THEY WANT	UNIT
Rental investor	Dollar income, capital protection	1 bed
Second-home family	Vacations, kids studying, a future move, rent when unused	2 to 3 bed
Entrepreneur	A base for business between Argentina and the US	1 to 2 bed
Advisors	Accountants, financial advisors, family offices placing client capital	All

Where

Nordelta first, then Tigre, San Isidro, Vicente López, Pilar and the gated communities of the northern suburbs. Digitally, extended to Buenos Aires city: Palermo, Belgrano, Recoleta, Puerto Madero.

Through whom

Beyond paid media, the office works a referral layer: accounting firms, financial advisors, family offices, clubs and country clubs in the north. A referral program for buyers who bring buyers.

MARKET	LEADS	COST PER LEAD	SPEND
Colombia	141	$8.64	$1,218
Argentina	27	$8.60	$232
Chile	19	$9.71	$185
Mexico	17	$8.35	$142
United States	3	$12.32	$37

Argentina produced the second-highest lead volume on 11% of the budget, at the lowest cost per lead of any market except Mexico. Since September the budget has been concentrated on Colombia and Mexico; Argentina has received under $20 a week. The market did not stop responding. It stopped being funded. This plan funds it.

What has worked and what we will reuse

- "Not every building allows Airbnb", a short video on rental restrictions for investors, produced 98.6% of leads in the first period and remains the account's top performer. Cassia's three-day rental policy is the direct answer to that concern.
- "Buenos Aires vs Miami", an 11.76% click-through rate in testing. The hook works; it is now being built into the structure of the proven converter.
- Native lead forms on Meta outperformed landing pages in tracked tests. Every Cassia ad will use them.

05 The 90-day plan

Six channels, one message, one place to walk into. Everything points at the Nordelta office and at a Cassia conversation.

CHANNEL	WHAT RUNS	MONTHLY	EXPECTED OUTPUT
Meta ads Instagram, Facebook	Video of the office and the residences, carousels of finishes and investment numbers, in rioplatense Spanish. Northern suburbs and Buenos Aires city, plus Argentines abroad. Three angles at once: rental flexibility, 10% entry, Coral Gables. Native lead forms with office booking.	$2,800	160 to 320 leads per month at $8.60 to $17 per lead
Google Search	Search on "invertir en Miami", "departamentos en Coral Gables", "renta en dólares" and related terms, Argentina geo. YouTube for the video series. Remarketing on everyone who visited the landing.	$700	25 to 50 high-intent leads
Nordelta office	Showroom with real finish samples, virtual walkthrough, investment simulator, video calls with Brickell. Opening event, then monthly investment breakfasts and talks with lawyers and accountants on buying as a non-resident.	$800	Opening event, 30 to 60 attendees, monthly events, walk-ins
Content	Short video series built from Cassia's renders and a Buenos Aires vs Miami comparison. Used as ads and organic posts.	$400	6 to 8 pieces, reused across channels
WhatsApp and email	Every lead enters an automated follow-up: fact sheet, availability, invitation to the office or a video call, event reminders. AI-assisted first contact, human agent within the hour. Landing on urban-usa.com with online booking, simulator and non-resident FAQ.	$300	Lead to meeting at 3% to 5%
Press and referrals	Opening announcement in Argentine business and real estate media, interviews with the Urban team and the developer. Alliances with accounting firms, advisors, family offices and clubs; referral program for buyers.	$0 team time	Earned coverage, a commercial channel that outlives the campaign
Total per month		$5,000	190 to 370 leads, 6 to 18 office visits or calls

REACH, 90 DAYS

At the account's actual cost per thousand impressions ($8.93), the Meta budget alone delivers roughly 940,000 impressions and 300,000 or more unique Argentine investors reached, before search, content and press.

LEADS, 90 DAYS

500 to 900 investor leads, using the account's real range of $8.60 to $17 per lead. The low end assumes the September blended cost; the high end assumes the Argentina cost we have already achieved.

06 Timeline, relative to the office opening

The opening date is being finalized. The plan runs on weeks before and after it, so it holds whatever the date lands on.

Week -4	Setup. Co-marketing agreement signed. Cassia materials received: renders, floor plans, availability, pricing, sales gallery video, rental estimates for the simulator. Creative production starts. Landing with booking and simulator built. Google account built for Argentina. WhatsApp and email sequences written. VIP list assembled from Urban's database and the developer's contacts.
Week -3	Soft launch. Meta campaigns live with three Cassia angles. Search live. First leads enter the follow-up sequence. Office signage and screens installed.
Week -2	Learning. First cut of creative: losers paused, winners scaled. Invitations to the opening event sent to the database and to leads generated so far. Press outreach begins.
Week -1	Pre-opening. Event confirmed. Cassia availability refreshed. Developer or sales gallery representative confirmed for the opening, in person or by video.
Opening	Launch. Nordelta office opens with Cassia featured. Invited investors, press, walk-ins. Every attendee leaves with the fact sheet, current availability and a booked follow-up.
Weeks +1 to +4	Scale. Budget concentrates on winning angles. Walk-in appointments, video calls with Miami, first contracts. First full report to the developer.
Weeks +5 to +8	Sustain. Second creative round. Retargeting of everyone who engaged but did not book. Monthly investment breakfast. Stories from investors who already bought. Second report. Decision on extending the push or rotating to the next project.

What the developer sees

A written report every two weeks with spend, leads, meetings and contracts in process, plus a live portal with the same numbers updated continuously. Nothing is estimated after the fact. The developer sees what we see.

07 The math from the developer's side

What $10,500 buys, and what it takes to pay for it.

ITEM	FIGURE
Combined budget, 3 months	$15,000
Urban contribution	$4,500
Developer contribution requested	$10,500
Average price of available Cassia units (21 units, $24.15M)	$1.15M
Developer contribution as a share of one unit	0.9%
Argentine investors reached, 90 days	300,000+
Investor leads, 90 days	500 to 900
Investor meetings, 90 days, at 3% to 5%	15 to 45

One contract pays for the whole program more than one hundred times over. Everything after the first is upside.

What we are not promising

Reach and leads are projected from this account's real costs and we stand behind the range. Contracts depend on inventory, pricing at the moment of the conversation and the buyer. We will report meetings and contracts in process honestly, including when a week is slow.

08 What we need from Alta, and what happens next

From the developer

- $3,500 per month for three months, invoiced monthly, as a co-marketing contribution.
- Marketing materials with usage rights for Argentina: renders, floor plans, amenity imagery, sales gallery video, brand guidelines.
- Units allocated to the launch and a price list by unit type, refreshed every two weeks so the office never presents a unit that is gone.
- Reservation and payment conditions for non-resident buyers, in writing, so the office can answer on the spot.
- Rental estimates by unit type for the investment simulator, from the Nomada program or the developer's own numbers.
- A representative for the opening, in person in Nordelta or by video call from the sales gallery.
- Sign-off on the concept "Invertí en Coral Gables sin salir de Nordelta" and on how Cassia's brand is used in Argentina.
- Optional, and it would move numbers: a launch condition exclusive to buyers who come through the Nordelta office during the 90 days. A closing credit or a reduced first deposit turns a visit into a contract.
- Optional, quoted separately: out-of-home at the Nordelta access roads, the Panamericana and Tigre, if the developer wants presence beyond digital.

From Urban

- $1,500 per month of its own budget.
- The Nordelta office, its team and the launch event.
- Full campaign execution across every channel, with A+ Growth as the operating team.
- Property management after delivery for buyers who want it, with monthly reporting, alongside the Nomada program.
- Partner legal and accounting firms for non-resident purchases.
- Lead handling in Spanish within the hour, every lead, every day.
- A report every two weeks and a live portal with the same numbers.
- All contracts registered under Cassia's standard outside broker program at the current 6% compensation.

09 How we measure, and how the developer sees it

The number that orders everything is the cost per office visit, because the visit is the step closest to a reservation.

STAGE	WHAT WE TRACK	SOURCE
Awareness	Reach, impressions, cost per thousand, video views	Meta, Google, press
Interest	Clicks, click-through rate, landing visits, cost per lead	Google Analytics 4, ad platforms
Visit	Office visits and video calls booked and held, cost per visit	CRM and the office calendar
Reserve	Reservations, units sold, cost per sale, channel of origin	CRM and the sales team

Every lead is tagged with its channel of origin, by UTM online and by a single question at the office, so each channel's real contribution is known and budget moves to what produces visits.

Reporting

A written report every two weeks with spend, leads, visits and contracts in process, a monthly review with sales by channel and a budget reallocation recommendation, and a live portal with the same numbers updated continuously. Nothing is estimated after the fact. The developer sees what we see.

Next steps

- 1 Thirty-minute call to walk through this plan and agree on the opening window.
- 2 One-page co-marketing agreement: amounts, duration, materials, reporting.
- 3 Materials handed over. Production starts the same week.
- 4 Campaigns live three weeks before the office opens.
